Individual directors must observe the Board's purpose as a policy-making and oversight body, and must distinguish the Board's purpose from the administrative and operational purposes served by ACRC management and staff.

Directors must act by and through the Board in order to conduct Board-related business, taking care not to speak for the Board or ACRC, or to transact Board business, other than during Board meetings or as otherwise authorized by the full Board or the ACRC Bylaws.

Directors must not promote or act to represent specific consumers or specific categories of developmental disabilities without due regard for the collective interests of all consumers served by ACRC and their families.

Although a Director must develop informed opinions and appropriately express those opinions, a Director must at all times serve ACRC and must not act against the interests of ACRC or against Board policy, regardless of the Director's personal views or opinions about those policies.

Directors must observe and maintain ACRC's confidentiality requirements, including matters designated confidential by the Board or its Executive Director, or as otherwise required by law.

Directors must become informed about and resolve all conflicts between their own interests and those of ACRC, its Board, and its consumers and families.
