*One of the most valuable tools for finding local government resources is the white pages of your Pacific Bell telephone book. Look at the beginning in the section titled, "EASY REFERENCE LIST." Information is listed by subject area with a reference to which section of government you can find the information: city, county, state, and/or federal.

What Is a Generic Resource?

A generic resource includes any community resource available to an individual and/or family which does not require a purchase from ACRC to access. Since the

the “payor of last resort.”

Some examples of existing sources of funding and service may include your personal insurance, Medi-Cal, California Children’s Services (CCS), the Department of Rehabilitation, your local school district, and local service agencies.

ACRC is committed to helping meet your needs. Your service coordinator is the key person to assist you in securing necessary supports and services to help fulfill your dreams and desires. This brochure presents some general information which may prove helpful when looking for community resources. As ACRC provides support and service in a ten-county area, it will not be possible to list every single resource; however, this brochure will provide you with ideas and places to look for resources in your local community.
